Jeremy and Amanda Ross

August 2006 Peru Update

“So, you don’t believe in statues, then?”

This was a question posed to me (Amanda) during one of my first conversations with two women that I have now grown to call “friends.” Kayla and I first met Amparo and Maria as we trekked out to find a place to get a few pictures taken of Kayla for school. They were in a tienda with a big “photo” sign, so we stepped in. After a few minutes, we got on the subject of why we live here. They asked me if I believe in statues, and when I responded, “No,” they said, “Well, then you are Christians.” I guess that is their distinction between Catholicism and Christianity. Since then, we talk almost daily as we walk past them on the way to school. They have expressed interest in coming to visit our church and have started asking questions.

Please pray for us the way Paul asked the saints to pray, “...that God may open a door for our message, so that we may proclaim the mystery of Christ...Pray that I may proclaim it clearly, as I should.” Col. 4:3-4

Our bi-lingual daughters (well, almost)

My sister (Janna) is pregnant with her second child. We were praying the other night for the new baby. Kayla asked, “What’s the baby’s name?” I said, “We don’t know yet.” Kayla said, I’m going to call Michael (Janna’s 2 year old) and say, “Como te llamas” (what’s your name?) your sister! So, she’s learning....maybe a little mixed up, but still progress _

-Please pray for us as we continue “poco a poco” to understand Spanish.

You are a great blessing to us! Thank you for your continued prayers.

By His Grace Alone,

The Ross Family
